

CLAIMS

---

1. A desk attachment which includes:
  - a base unit including a communication bus having a communication port for connection to at least one remote signal source;
  - and
  - a plurality of user modules for attachment to the base unit such that they are electrically connected with the bus, each module having a PC port for connection with a local computer and at least one peripheral port for connection with a user interface device, said ports being arranged such that a computer on the PC port is operably connected to the or each peripheral port and the bus.